There are many PWM (Pulse width modulation) controller integrated circuits available in the market just like SG3525. These PWM controllers ICs you can use very easily in your SMPS projects by connecting some external circuitry with them according to the selection of frequency. I will discuss these things in detail later in this article.

That covers the different parameters related to TLP250. Now let's go to the design stage and look at a few circuits. One thing you MUST remember to do when designing circuits with TLP250 is that, a 0.1  $\mu$  F bypass capacitor (ceramic capacitor) should be connected between V+ (pin 8) and V- (pin 5). This capacitor stabilizes the

This means that the PWM signal should share the same ground as the low-side MOSFET source ground. I hope that clears your doubt. Regards, Tahmid.
